SCIENTIFIC AND MEDICAL BREAKTHROUGHS

Bacterium that can degrade plastics

Consumption and proliferation of plastic and plastic products is becoming one of the greatest environmental threats to our ecosystem. An estimated 311 million tons of plastic products are produced and used annually in the world. Biological degradation of plastics is still a challenge for us all including our scientific community. Until recently no organism was known to decompose it. It seems that scientists now have an answer to this problem. Scientists in Japan have been successful in discovering a bacterium which can break down and consume plastics. This new species of bacterium is called Ideonella sakaiensis and was isolated outside a bottle-recycling plant. It feeds on plastic and consumes it. It breaks down Polyethylene terephthalate (PET) and uses it as a source of energy and carbon, thus leaving behind simple elements and compounds which are easily degraded. This discovery, if commercially successful will help in biodegradation of plastics in an eco-friendly way and help humans get rid of non-biodegradable waste.

"BEING PERSISTENT AND STICKING TO THE BASICS IS THE KEY TO SUCCESS IN IAS EXAM"

Employment News wishes you heartiest congratulations on your success. Your achievement has brought a lot of joy to your heart and I am happy that your hard work has paid off.

Mr. Gupta: Thank you so much Sir!

E N: How did you feel when you came to know that you had not only competed in one of the toughest exams in India but your name was in the toppers list?

Mr. Gupta: I don’t have words to express my emotions after seeing the result. It was a mix of happiness and relief coming from remembrance of all the hard work, moments when I felt low and finally getting into where I always wanted. However, more than just a feeling of happiness, I achieved a sense of accomplishment regarding busting a myth Civil Services is meant only for extra-ordinary people. I come from humble background and one of the backward districts Singra in Haryana but I did it, which I believe ignites a sense of confidence in lakhs of youth in different parts of the country.

E N: Your strategy of creating mind maps also helped you to prepare every topic. This made my answers more in line with what I understood rather than what the examiner expected. That was a key to answering the essay questions. The practice of reading the question a few times before answering and then examine it again in between just to make sure I was pursuing the right direction. While concluding also I read the question again to be very clear about what I wanted to convey because these days questions are mostly scenario based. Give them very clear opinions about what you feel about the issue at hand.

Prelims Strategy:

Mains Strategy:

Personality Test:

E N: How did you manage your time during the preparation?

Mr. Gupta: I think time management is the key area in preparation strategy, especially for the working professionals. I used to set 3 month plan mentioning what all I would be covering in that period along with revising daily topics and daily schedules. That not only improves efficiency of one self but have inner peace that after 3 months that integrated learning will be covered.

E N: How did you manage your time and what did you do to break the monotony of preparation?

Mr. Gupta: Civil services examination takes 1 year of aspirants and in which one has to clear all the three stages. There have been many moments of doubt when I felt I may not be able to crack it or Civil Services is not just for me. There are times when I got frustrated during the preparation, especially after moments of failure. But trust me, its normal and take it as a phase of preparation. Talk to your well-wishers, parents that can give you positive vibes and get back to studies as soon as possible. I used to talk to my father, he used to make me remember my small achievements that helped in regaining confidence in me. I used to say again and again whenever I was feeling too much pressure "All is well. All is well. I am the best. Trust me it works; it helps in reducing the pressure in our heads and relax a bit."

Further I used to watch Rajya Sabha TV debates and hear All India Radio. It not only helped in breaking the monotony of preparation but making me well aware as well as build my opinion after listening to experts from different fields. I would sincerely advice all the aspirants to follow the same.

E N: Your advice for future aspirants.

Mr. Gupta: I come from a humble background, having my father as farmer and mother as Primary Government Teacher. All throughout my life though I was sincere student but was not an extraordinary student. When I used to go with my mother sometime on my holidays to her school, I used to see the difference in education between my mother and students under her mother used to teach. At that point of time I was just a child and thought might be life is like this only. But one incident in my college changed my entire course of life. Then I started learning about some individuals like Mahatama Gandhi, JL Nehru and then live examples of E.Sreedharan, OP Chaudhary, Anand Saurabh Pame who kept on motivating me.

Further I would like to highlight the importance of persistence in this examination, especially when we have to revise same notes, books again and again or write answers every day, demotivation comes. But at that point of time, being persistent and sticking to the basics is the key. Make sure, don’t get distracted to various resources, choose resources wisely, and consolidate them and "REVISE-REVISE-REVISE". Further don’t neglect answer writing by any means, at the end of a day it matters how your write 150-200 words in the examination. Make sure to answer each part of question, give a well versed introduction, try to make flowchart in 7-8 questions overall in paper and in your head, be clear and clear your thoughts. This is the key in mains.

I would end with a quote of Sir Harivansh Rai Bachchan that keeps me motivating throughout my journey: "सीखने का वक़्त नहीं गया। एक अदा भी नहीं, वो कर और जाना। सीखते हुए तो ले लो। सीखने का वक़्त नहीं गया। एक अदा भी नहीं, वो कर और जाना।"
