Khadi-Prime Fabric for India's Economic Transformation

Dr Shri Nath Sahai

"I shall spin charkha, friend you also spin. This will give us independence."

-Mahatma Gandhi

Khadri is not a cloth simply, but a concept. It was an integral part of India's freedom struggle, since Gandhi made khadi a "weapon", to revolutionize the village economy. Khadi was named 'every of freedom'.

Gandhi's Laptop: Gandhi brought Charkha into larger use, with his teachings to achieve people's self-sufficiency. A small portable, hand channel wheel (earlier shape) was considered ideal for spinning cotton and other fibres. It was also included in the earlier version of the Flag of India. So, it occupied a central place in the freedom struggle - both as a tool and symbol of the freedom movement.

Post independence, Khadi received attention at the Government level. After All India Bunkar Sangh set up in 1925 and followed by All India Gramodyog Sangh in 1934, the All India Khadi Gramodyog Mandal was established in 1953 under the Ministry of Commerce. Later in 1957, the Khadi and Gramodyog Ayog came into existence. Since then, the Ayog has developed a wide network all over the country and is working through more than a large majority are young people.

Speaking at the inaugural ceremony of the event, Prime Minister Narendra Modi categorically stated that "Khelo India" was "not merely a program but a mission to instill sports as a priority area of engagement" for the people of India. Government is committed to take the message of the importance of sports to every family and make it part of the educational ecosystem.

The best performers from the Khelo India School Games are slated to be nurtured as an India prospect for international games at the highest level. But there is more than what meets the eye. The week gone by has seen the seeding of sports as an opportunity in more than one way. On the field, off the field and in the hearts and minds of this billion plus country, if Khelo India germinates as a passion and mission as Prime Minister has echoed in his words, a world of opportunities awaits for everyone.

The good part of the story is that unlike in the past, this time promotion of sports seems not just on papers but people are coming out to unequivocally endorse the sportswagon which nation has embarked upon. While you read this, the Khelo India pledge has crossed the one million mark and people from all walks of life are coming out in support of the sports movement in the country.

What makes a good career in sports related vocations are the same attributes which makes a good sportsperson. The basic qualities of an individual in demand to pursue a career in sports related fields - physical ability, sporting flair and mental ability. While we discuss this, we must also be aware that the sports professionals we are preparing will not just cater to the domestic needs but a skilled sporting career enthusiast will be in high demand internationally. Infact, the ever growing global industry of sports career enthusiast can only be met if campaigns like Khelo India take roots in a world's largest democracies with a considerable young and energetic population.

producing nearly 45 percent products. In export market, its share is 34 percent. Thus, Khadi, together with Gramodoy, projects a great role in the creation of employment opportunities.

 Till March 31, 2015, nearly 10 lakh workers had got employment in Khadi industry, of which there were 8,78,657 spinning workers and 7,77,931 weavers. Khadi and Gramodyog Ayog (KVIC) report mentions that during the year 2013-14 (till January 2015) near 140.49 lakh opportunities of employment were created in this area, that was 13 percent more than the previous year.

Because of initial infrastructure cost being quite high, a number of women are reluctant to adopt khadi udyog as it is a very convenient source of employment. For spinning Khadi, one needs a weaving machine with a minimum power of 75 Watts and soft physical handle to control, that can be done, sitting at any cool place. It is estimated that each woman can spin two to three kilos per day to set up even a small unit of powerloom; for the khadi it is Rs. 2000 only. The raw material may also be found in the area.

The Problems:  Still, however, the Khadi Udyog is beset with many problems. Maximum demand for Khadi products is khadi udyog, as the villages where these are established, lack in proper approach roads, convenient transport system and proper marketing facilities. The women themselves and depend mostly on the diamonds, who do not pay them properly.

Inadequacy in attractive packaging of the khadi products, as done for the other handloom products and marketing another drag in the marketing, as youths and the elite class are not attracted to these items, despite subsidies and discounts given by the government to lower down the prices.

Wages of workers in khadi udyog are lower making employment available to youths. The average monthly income of khadi weavers is Rs. 3000 only, which is lower to even MNREGA standard. The weavers feel that the government has yet to decide how the strength of bunks engaged in khadi plants is getting reduced these years. It is reported, that the number of weavers which were 48,000 bunks has come down from 60,000 to 10,000 (sec Kurukshetra, (Hindi) October 24, 2013).

New schemes: To help Khadi, government has envisaged the Scheme of Fund for Regeneration of Traditional Industries (SFRTI) to set up 800 SFRTI clusters, with government's contribution of Rs. 850 cr. Old machines, instruments will be replaced, new designs will be developed, quality will be improved, all help to nearly four lakh weavers. The SGSY programme of the Ministry of Village Development has been restructured and PMEGP has been designed, combining the PMRY and REGP programmes, appointing the KVIC as Nodal Agency.

Skill India Mission and Khadi: The government of India has conceptualized that there has to be skill development also, so that they become very high and the supply is abysmally poor. In fact its not just in sports, with the renewed emphasis of the Khelo India movement, of which envisages right from designing to manufacturing and designs will in high demand.
